

TRANSFER PRINTING WORKSTATION

ABSTRACT

A workstation for producing a printed article using a quantity of a transferable marking substance includes a workstation frame, an output device and a transfer press. Each of the output device and transfer press is supported on the frame. The output device is adapted to output a transfer sheet having an imaged form thereon from the transferable marking substance. The transfer press has a heating element suitable for transferring the marking substance from the transfer sheet to the article. A method of providing a custom printed article is also disclosed.